NONGFU SPRING

Established in 1996 in Hangzhou, Nongfu Spring is one of China's leading bottled water supplier, producing high quality natural drinking waters.

We are pioneers who have built state-of-the-art water production facilities across China at our eight premium quality water sources, in order to satisfy the growing demand by consumers who are choosing to drink healthy water as a preference. Investment in modernization means we also are confident of having great distribution channels possible, to provide our products to all parts of China through our significant and efficient logistics network.

We are widely recognized in China for our "natural and healthy" products. We are committed to preserving the goodness and sustainability of our natural water sources. We do not add any artificial minerals to our drinking water, nor do we purify it. We aim to retain the natural health benefits with each water source containing many natural mineral elements such as potassium, sodium, calcium and magnesium.
